

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. # PREFACE.

WITH the single exception of James Fenimore Cooper, William Gilmore Simms stands as the foremost of American novelists. In fact many of his works surpass the minor work of that writer, and only the best of Cooper's surpass such works as Guy Rivers, Mellichampe, The Yemassee, and The Kinsmen, among the most popular of Simms's writings.

Born in Charleston, S. C., in 1806, Simms began a long and notable literary career by courting the muse. As a poet however he is almost forgotten, and few if any of his verses are to-day read by any but a handful of delvers into the beginnings of our early poetic literature. Fortunately for American Letters the young poet soon turned his attention to a field where more could be gained both in fame and from a pecuniary standpoint. He gave his time and attention to fiction, and became and still stands among the most popular of the early novelists of his country. His first work of fiction was Martin Faber, the Story of a Criminal. It was successful, and started the author upon a brilliant career as a historical novelist, a calling in which only Cooper has surpassed him among American writers. To attain this prominence was not an easy matter, for he had to contend for supremacy with such writers as Ingraham, F. W. Thomas, Timothy Flint, Robert W. Bird, author of Calavar, and several others of equal power. He however succeeded in outranking them all, and where his works are to-day still read to a large extent theirs have long been forgotten. Simms was also a success as a historian, as his History of South Carolina will attest, and his Life of Captain John Smith, his biographies of the Chevalier Bayard, Nathaniel Greene and Francis Marion place him among the first of American biographers.

Without a single exception I think that Simms was the most voluminous writer that America has produced, his separate works alone reaching a total of over eighty titles, while his magazine articles and editorials cannot now be gathered together, so numerous are they.

That the name of Simms stood high among his contemporaries is evidenced by the praise bestowed upon him by the author of The Raven. Poe said of him: "He has more vigour, more imagination, more movement, and more general capacity than all our novelists (save Cooper) combined." High praise, indeed, from one who was not over lavish in bestowing it upon his contemporaries.

In compiling this list I have endeavored to secure, where possible, line for line titles and complete col-lations, especially of the earlier and more uncommon books. I have made no effort to secure titles of any but the first editions, as most of the novels were issued in numerous editions, some being still in print. No attempt has been made to collect a list of the writings which have appeared in magazines and newspapers, as such a task is almost impossible at this time, and few collectors seem to care about anything save separate publications.

In the compilation of this work I have received the kind assistance of Harry L. Koopman of Brown University Library, where most of the poetical publications can be seen; Mr. Daniel Parish, through whose kindness I was enabled to see the fine collection of Simms's works in the New York Historical Society, and Mr. Victor H. Paltsits of the Lenox Library, who is always willing to extend to the utmost the help at his command to further American Bibliography. For the kindness shown to me by these gentlemen I am most grateful, and wish to thank them most sincerely.

OSCAR WEGELIN.

A LIST OF THE SEPARATE WRITINGS OF WILLIAM GILMORE SIMMS

A Monody on General Cotesworth Pinckney. Charleston, 1825.

Although this title is mentioned by several bibliographers, no copy can be traced, and I am under the impression that it was never issued in separate form, but made its appearance in a magazine or newspaper. It is the first literary attempt of Simms, written when the author was only nineteen years of age.

Lyrical | and | Other Poems. | By | William G. Simms, Jun. | "Mihi cura futuri." | Charleston; | Ellis & Neufville | 1827. | 16mo, pp. [3], 6, [3], 8-198, [6].

This is Simms's first work in book form. Davidson (in the Living Writers of the South, N. Y., 1860) calls it a début volume. This goes far to prove that the Monody on Pinckney was not issued in separate form.

Early Lays. | By | William G. Simms, Jun. | Author of "Lyrical and Other Poems,"—"Monody on Pinckney," etc. | 'Who does not love the lyre.' | Charleston, S.C. | A. E. Miller | 1827. | 8vo, pp. [3], iv+108.

SACK AND DESTRUCTION | OF THE | CITY OF COLUMBIA, S. C. | To which is added | A list of the Property Destroyed.| Columbia, S. C.: | Power Press of Daily Phœnix. | 1865. | 8vo, pp. [3], 4-76, and paper covers.

On verso of title is a poem signed "J. H. H." occasioned upon the following incident: During his march to the sea Sherman passed through and destroyed Columbia. A young woman visited the site of her former home the day after its destruction, seeking a memento of the sad affair. Nothing was found however except a part of a charred newspaper which had contained Payne's song of "Home, Sweet Home." The only words however which remained were "There is no place like home," which filled the searcher's heart with even a greater sorrow than before.

The cover has the additional words "Originally published in the Columbia Phœnix."

Probably the rarest of the author's later works. It was printed on Confederate bond paper. Five thousand copies were printed, of which about one hundred were sold. The rest were either given away or destroyed.

pp. [7], viii, [1], 10-250 and leaf with John Munsell's Colophon. [Portrait of John Laurens engraved by C. Burt.]

Seventy-five copies were issued by the Bradford Club.

A SUCCINCT MEMOIR OF THE LIFE AND PUBLIC SERVICES OF COLONEL JOHN LAURENS, Aid-de-Camp to General Washington, and Special Envoy to the French Court during the War of the American Revolution. Together with a series of Letters written by him relating to that eventful epoch and addressed to his father, Henry Laurens, President of Congress. Williamstadt: 1867. 8vo.

WAR POETRY | OF | THE SOUTH. | Edited by | William Gilmore Simms, LL.D. | New York: | Richardson & Company, | 540 Broadway. | 1867. | 12mo, pp. viii, [1], 2-482.

All bibliographers give the above as the first edition. I have however positive proof that some copies have the date of 1866 printed on title. Only one copy has come under my observation however which bears that date. Davidson (Living Writers of the South) states that it "appeared late in 1866."

THE QUAKER PARTISANS. A Story of the Revolution. By the Author of "The Scout." Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co. 1869. 16mo, pp. 294. [4 plates.]

THE SWAMP ROBBERS. New York: Munro & Co. 1870. 18mo.

SUMTER. | 8vo, pp. [3], 4-11 and covers.

This is supposed to have been written by Simms. On back on the title are printed the following lines "These verses are published for the benefit of the South Car- | olina Monument Association, to aid their design of erecting a | monument at Columbia, S. C., in memory of those who fell in the defence of their Country." It was probably issued about 1870.

THE SENSE OF THE BEAUTIFUL. | An address, | delivered by | W. Gilmore Simms, | before the | Charleston County Agricultural and | Horticultural Association, | (now the Agricultural Society of South Carolina,) May 3, 1870. | Published by the Society. | Charleston, S. C. | Walker, Evans & Cogswell, Stationers and Printers, | Nos. 3 Broad and 109 East Bay Streets. | 1870. | 8vo, pp. [3], 4-18 and paper covers.

This was the author's last appearance in public. He died June 11th, 1870.
